Shenandoah National Forest

CONDUCTED BY
A COMMUNITY COMMITTEE
OF THE
DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

LOCATION

Shenandoah National Forest.

150 miles west of Washington, D. C.

15 miles north of Staunton, Va.

1500 feet above sea level; a complete change of climate.

TRANSPORTATION

The Southern Railroad will furnish through rail transportation to Stokesville, Virginia, on days scheduled for whole camping parties and the remainder of the trip will be made by automobile to the camp four miles distant.

SEASON OF 1920

June 1 to September 30

Two-week vacation periods from Monday of one week to Saturday of the following week.

The first season capacity will be 100 for each two-week period. Application should therefore be made well in advance.

COST

Adults	$20.00
Children under 12	15.00
Children in a family under 2 years old	No charge

(Special Milk may be purchased)

These charges will cover entire expense of two-week vacation, including transportation. Registration and payment must be made in advance. The charge is based upon the amount necessary to make the camp self-sustaining. The camp is not for profit and is therefore run on the simplest possible plan which will insure wholesome food and water, comfortable quarters, and real outdoor recreation.

DESCRIPTION OF CAMP

The camp is on land that belongs to you, the Shenandoah National Forest, administered by the Forest Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture. The Forest was created for watershed protection and is one of the people's playgrounds. The camp is run by a community committee under a special use permit from the U. S. Forest Service, for the benefit of residents of the District of Columbia.

The tract contains about 1,407 acres situated in Augusta County, Virginia, on the headwaters of the south fork of the Shenandoah River. From the foot of Lookout Mountain numerous spur ridges extend out and cross the tract. Cool mountain streams flow between these ridges. The difference in elevation between the lower levels and the ridge tops is only about 300 feet. The timber-covered slopes, which are moderate to gentle, are inviting to those who enjoy tramping; and from the tops of the nearby mountains which are within walking distance, wonderful views of the surrounding country may be obtained.
